THE HUMAN SOUL FOUND.

Scientific Disclosures and Proofs Which Threaten to Startle and Artonish the Whole World When They Are Published.

Lieculn, Neb., Aug. 27 .- A most remarkable discovery has recently developed in this city. It is of such an astounding nature that the correspondent hesitates to give the circumstances to the public on account of that is mainly due its ignerance."—heing barred at present from giving Louisville Commercial. names, although there is no good reason why it should not be done. However, the gentleman who has made the discovery requests it. This disclosure consists in proving beyond the possibility of a doubt by scientific means the existence of the human sont, laying bare the greatest secret of nature and proving the dectrine of eternal faith "that the soul of man doth flye," the disclosures and proofs of which will shortly startle and asstonish the entire world.

For the sake of convenience the gentieman alluded to w!ll be called Mr. Holland,a man of small stature, a mild eye and thoughtful countenance a devoit Christian, possessing a pecua devont Christian, possessing a peculiar bellef that the soul of a man is a counterpart of the body itself; and in this theory of the dual man he sought the key of life and death. He appetite is splendid and regular, she is full of life and cheerfulness. The reasoned that within this body of bone and sinew was yet another body existing in vapor form which death alone should free, and that by a simple blessings of God, to Switt's Specific interescopic device the dull sight of in view of what it has done for me human eyes inight penetrate the min-ute particles of the air we breath, Imman eyes night penetrate the minute particles of the air we breath, and see the soul take form and flight to the boundaries of another world.

His attention was first attracted to this, he says, by a man lying upon a sofa suffering with a pain in his foot, and yet there was no foot there to suffer the log laying been appoint.

Pastor M. E. Church, South.

Shelly, N. C. Eab 9, 1895. and yet there was no root there to suffer, the leg having been amputa-ted nearly to the hlp. "For years," says Mr. Holland, "this incident ran through my mind, until at last I re-solved upon an experiment. I proenred the most powerful lenses I could find and completed an invention of my own, and when I had my light arranged perfectly so 1 could examine the microbes of the air, 1 called upon a friend who had lost his arm and explained that I wanted him to put his imaginary hand where I directed. He langhingly accompani-ed me to my rooms and dld as i de-slied. The moment I adjusted the Hospitals afforded opportunities, but physicians and attendants had no faith in the experiments of the quiet gentleman, whom they no doubt alinded to as "crank," so for nearly a year ho was waiting and watching for a man ready to die.

consumptive wanderer from the East songht rellef in the Western air. Ile fell penulless, and was about to be taken by the authorities to the county poor-house when Mr. Holland Interposed and had film removed to his own home, to murse and watch him die. Through many long hours of the night, Mr. Holland sat by the bedside of his charge, familing the spark of life lest it should go out in the night, when all efforts at the experiment would be lost, and leaving orders by day with his wife to call him the moment the patient seemed to be sinking.

The fated moment came about 10 The fated moment came about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Stretched inpon a low bedside, with the deathrattle sounding in bls throat, lay a young man of perhaps twenty-three years of age. Mr. Holland quietly motloned the correspondent to a seat and commend watching the features of the dy'ng man with silent interest. Presently he arose and adjusted the curtains of the whidows. justed the curtains of the windows so that a flood of light fell aslant the dying man. Ho wheeled from a cor-ner of the room what looked like a photographer's earners, arranged the lenses to a foens, and then produced a large icus of some twelve, inches in diameter and placed it lugrooves made to fit behind the apparatus. The back part was then covered with a black cloth so as to obscure the light, and from time to time as the breathing of the man grew heavier Mr. Holland made inspectious of the instrument. At precisely II :30 o'clock a sudden tremor passed through the bedy and he had ceased to breathe. Mr. Hoi-land arose from the bedside and said in a whisper:

n a whisper:
"Now is the time!"
Together Mr. Holland and the correspondent passed their hands under the black cloth and bent their eyes intently upon the glass. Particles of dust in the air were magnified sevoral thousand times and for a time their motion kept a perfect dazzle upon the glass.

Then as the vapor gathers into clouds, so an object appeared to be forming a foot above the body upon the bed. Particles seemed to seek particles, as by some molecular attraction, until an object was clearly distinguishable. It seemed the vapory form of a man rapidly assuming a more perfect shape, pure and color-less as the most delicate crystal. There was a moment of awful stillness, and a feeling came over me which I can never describe. We bent our eyes intently upon the glass nutil, particle by particle, the shape-ly form of a man had formed and lay

"I misteok your strength," he said; "perhaps I should not have called you here. We have seen natural causes and effects. Death is but the beginning of life. Be careful, though, to whom you tell the story of this day; the world is incredulous and to

STATEMENT.

The Undersigned, a Committee of of all Kinds at Cost. Directors, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, appointed to formulate the views of the Board on the advantages offered by the Society to the public, report:

1st. The Society issues all the appreved forms of assurance, behidding developed the corresponding to the Toutine policies. It is immaterial to the Directors which form of policy is taken by intending assurers.

2d. The Life and Endowment forms of pelicy provide, for annual eash dividends and a surrender value; are still complete and an indispintable after three years, and payable immediately after proof of early call will secure

3. The premiums on a Tontine polley are the same as on the Ordinary partment. We will life, but, while the latter is only payable in the event of death, the make close prices on payable in the event of death, the holder of the Tontine policy has the right to draw tho whole of the re-serve and the accumulated profits in cash at the end of a stated period; thus during his own life time, after his producing years are past, he can without any larger premium than on an ordinary policy, secure these greater advantages. 4th. Experience shows that the return paid in each or maturing Ton-thic polleles approximates to, or exceeds the amount of premiums paid higher this fall. We by policy holders, so that the average can show the start of the st by policy holders, so that the average cest of the assurance will be only about the interest on the premiums. 5th. Toutine policies, like others, are pald in full in, the event of death at any time during the term of the polley, and are incontestable lumediately after due proof of death.

6th. Experience shows that the mortally is lower among Toutine policyholders, as the better lives seek this kind of assurance, which is a considerable source of profit.
7th. Toutine policies will be made non-forfeitable under the laws of the State, if so desired at the time the assurance is effected. 8. The Tontlue system is falr and Wm. Merritt and Alice Brewn, for- just; its accounts are accurately kept separate from all other business; the fouds judiciously invested and improved, and the accumulated profits falthfully guarded and properly up-portloned.

9th. The Society has since ils organization transacted a larger amount of new business than any other company, while its new business for the first half of the present year is $1,750,000 larger than that of the first half of 1884. It has Assets of $60,000,000; ever $14,000,000 of Surplus, and its railo of Surplus to Liability is greater than that of any other company. Chauncey M. Derew,

A TALE OF HALF-HOURS. The Difference Between Two Glrls-Whiel

"Molly, what have you been doing?" "Nothing, mamma." "What do you mean by nothing? I left you sitting by this window half an "Nowhere, mamina, I was watch-help me pure the peaches." "Shall I do them now?" "They are all deac. I supposed every moment that you would come, or I should have ealied you." "I'm sorry, mamma, I forgot," But Molly dld not look particularly sorry, and not at all ashamed. There was nothing new or surprising, I regret to say, either in the half-hour wasted or the forgetten promise; they were things of every dny with Molly Lester.

Molly was naturally an indolent child. The blood did not dance in her veins as a child's blood should she fe no quick impulses toward net on an i movement. This constitutional sing-gishness of temperament was Molly s excuse - her only one; but it was not e. ing hard and steadily, and making our-ing hard and steadily, and making our-selves do the duty. Searcely any one Is born persevering, or Industrious, or prompt, or neat—all these are habits which must be formed by years of ef-fort; but, when formed, they are the too apt to indulge herself, "just this onee," or to reflect that 'only twenty minutes more" or "only half an hour" could make no difference, unmindful of the fact that life is made up of minuteand half-hours, and that to waste them means to waste life. A good, hard to apply her mind to it. There was another girl in the house who was exactly the opposite of Moly. Her name was Lucy—Lucy Lester. Shows Molly's coas n, and about the same age. Her father and mother died within a few weeks of each other of typhoid fever; and her uncle, Robert, Molly's titler, lead taken her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like—Molly or Lucy?—Susan Coofington her bone to live with the like with the fever; and her uncte, Robert, Molly's father, had taken her home to live with him, and be a sister to Molly, who had no sister of her own. It had far. for I'm their own sister, and she is only n consin." But she never took the trouble to make herself either useful or beloved, and things gradually went nway from her-the friends the chance which should have been hers. It was hour ago. Where have you been since sad for Molly to miss so much; but it is the hard law of the world that to those who will have shall be given, and tot .c folded han is little or nothing.

And now the two girls have grown up, and ure women. I went to the Lesters' home the other day. Jim, the o'd est boy, is soon to be married. He came in while I was there. He spoke to us nlt, but he sat down close to Lucy, and haln long, low-voiced talk with her about the little home ho is furnishing It was qu'te as a matter of course that he did so; but it struck me enrionaly, and I couldn't help looking at Molly, who sat by the window with her hands folded, an I took little part in the con-

ESQUIMAU GAMES.

Feverile Gambling Diversions of the In-habitants of the Arctic Regions. A favorite Esquimau amusement is to take one of the long-handled muskexcuse—her only one partit was not contained at Molty, and wondered that cuss enough. For none of us are sent into the world to do only the things was feel like doing; and the fact that we have anthrality a bias against wint be have anthrality a bias against wint be have not read to be a reason for light.

I glanced at Molty, and wondered that so exps, and, partially most accurately asked on a board or flat rock in the center of a group collected to play the game; the that. He was metropole his person to whom the handle of the cup enilt sum in algebra, and he took his person to whom the handle of the cup book to Lucy, who ugain laid down her work to help him. Mr. Lester put his head into the room, and called out: points when it has stopped turning is the victor, and can appropriate the contents of the cup. This game is not so much played by the children as by the old women of the tribe, and I am sorry to say that this simple game le often used by them as a means of gambling. When the person to whom the handle is pointed has taken out the nrticle placed in the cup (or alongside it, if it be too large) some other article must be placed in it or alongside it, and a brisk twirl is then given it that sends it apinning around again four or tive times before it settles to a rest and the handle designates the new victor.
I have said this is a kind of gambling, because the lucky one often puts in the musk-ox horn cup things much more valuable than are taken out, the only ldea of value among the Esquimaux bo ldea of value among the Esquinaux bolng the present necessity for an article.
A needle that is wanted for use immediately is more valuable in their eyes than the horn oup which holds it, although it may have taken them a month to make the cup.—Lieutenasi

The papers of the State have been poking fun at the Commissioner of Agriculture for the llvely manner lu which his July report was written up. It turns out that an ex-editor did the job for him, and it is evident that he instilled new life in the old Bureau, even if he did let one erop "neter out," and another "flash in the pan." The July report has been more thoroughly perused—by editors—than any ever published.— Union Local.

Damages in Both Ways.

Sickness is the most expensive thing in the world. In two ways: It puts one to a direct cost, and prevents one from earning money by his labor. We say nothing of suffering, for the money cannot pay for that. How much better to keep oneself well by the use of Parker's Tonic whenever there is the slightest sign of ill health

THE H DISEASE.

A Misused Aspirate in England-Hatefle There seems no room for doubting that the h disease had its origin in Lon don. Walker speaks of it as specially prevalent in London in his day, und even now it is more common in the pure cockney dialvet (the most hateful form of the English language in existence) than anywhere in England Moreover, its prevalence in other places than London is greater or less necord lng as such places are nearer to or farther from the metropolis. We find no trace of it ln Cornwall or Wales; ver little In Cumberland, Northumberland and Yorkshire. In the milliand connties it is less common than in the south-It is at its maximum in the heart of London. In this respect it is like the v-and-w malady, which, even when at its height (it los now nearly dled out), was never so budly felt in the provinces as in the metropolis; though, of course, like all metropolitan defects, it spreads in greater or less degree over the whole country.

This being the case, we are justified in assuming that the disease had at first that form which is characteristic of the faults of language found ul great centers of population, and especially in the chief city of the nation. If you wish to hear Freuch clipped and shurred you should to to Paris, and German suffers like treatment in Vienna and Berlla. It is the same with English in London. In grent und busy eity men shorten their words and sentences as much as possi-ble, being assured that what they say the looking-glass thumped him in the neck and then in the eye.

"Where's the fire?" yelled the Fire Marshal.

"What had been becomes the fire?" yelled the Fire Marshal. down Butcher Jones' does, its he satisfied in provincial places and in front of his purfor fire, reading.

"Hold on! Thunder and turf! Great Scott!" shouted the butcher; "what's the matter?" shouted the butcher; "what's the matter?" shouted the fireman nt the window.

"Your house is on fire!" shouted the fireman nt the window. modified in provincial places and in colonies, it is only in busy etties, and chiefly in capital cities, that a lauguage is modified by clipping and slurring. - Richard A. Proctor, in Atlantic Monthly
